Brief Sketches of Their Lives, Which Should Be An Inspiration to All; Opportunities In Portsmouth for the Hard-working Conscientious Young Man Just As Good As Anywhere Else In The World

STEPHEN S. HALDERMAN

From saddlebags to automobile Dr. Stephen S. Halderman has watched the development of Portsmouth from the days when, as a young physician, he rode horseback through the village to the outlying farms down to the modern time when his automobile whirled over paved roads lined with homes from Government Square to Sciotoville and beyond. Forty-nine years ago when Dr. Halderman settled in the East End, hung out his physician's shingle, and waited for his first patient, there were but four or five families between Offshore street and Wheelersburg. Now the district is built up solid. It was a hard life the doctor lived in those days nearly a half a century ago; poor roads or perhaps only vaguely marked trails over the hills, out in all kinds of weather, riding through the night to a distant farmhouse, and then having to perform a serious operation without hospital facilities, under the flickering light of an oil lamp, with the kitchen table for the operating slab. "Hard? Yes," Dr. Halderman smiles reminiscently, "but I don't believe these young fellows with all their superior education and advantages get half the fun out of life that we did. Why, when I first came to Portsmouth I spoke to everyone I met on the street, now I can go clear across the town and not see a single soul I know. It seems to me I actually knew more folks forty years ago than I do today."

Dr. Halderman was born in Ross County, Ohio, January 31, 1853, attended school in that county and studied medicine at the Medical College of Ohio, at Jackson. Those were the days when the young doctor-to-be read medicine with some older, well established practitioner. In Jackson county, Dr. Halderman met Miss Anna Katherine Go-rath, who later became his wife. The doctor has seen his family of four children grow to maturity as Portsmouth has grown from a thriving village to a prosperous city. He is a member of All Saints Episcopal church, a Knights Templar, Mason, member of the American Medical Association, member of the Ohio Medical Association of which he was president 1904-1905, Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, member of Hempstead Hospital staff, and for the past 28 years has been the surgeon for the Norfolk & Western Railway. As a director and vice-president of the Central National Bank, of which he was one of the charter incorporators, and director of the Commercial Building and Loan Association Co., Dr. Halderman has been actively identified with the business life of Portsmouth.

Dr. Halderman's vision of Portsmouth of the future sees a city built along the river front from here to Ironton, the Ohio river a great traffic way from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, when the waterways passage has been constructed from Sandusky to Portsmouth, and vast manufacturing plants flourishing. He unhesitatingly advises the young physician, starting out in his profession to settle in a small but growing community. "The medical education of today," says Dr. Halderman, "tends to send the young physicians to the cities to open their offices. They are trained to expect laboratories, clinics, well equipped hospitals. The young doctors who have hesitated to choose Portsmouth for their field because of the lack of these advantages need not feel this handicap in the future, for Portsmouth will soon have three strictly modern and perfectly equipped hospitals. Hospitals are dear to Dr. Halderman's heart, for to him and to Dr. J. S. Rardin goes the credit of establishing the first of such institutions in Portsmouth. The two surgeons maintained for some years a hospital on Ninth street, just west of Gay, a 12-room house, which was filled with patients all the time. When the city built the municipal hospital Drs. Halderman and Rardin abandoned their project and lent the weight of their support to the new institution, now known as Hempstead hospital. The young man who settles in the smaller towns gains valuable experience in the variety of calls he receives and is better able to choose intelligently if he wishes to specialize later in his career, according to Dr. Halderman.

"For nearly fifty years I have watched Portsmouth grow, and I believe the next fifty years will mean even greater development for the Peerless City."

Guard Of Honor Only Military Display At Wilson Funeral

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—A fringe of folk on the street before the Wilson home, waiting to see the great ones who came and went, and the crowd of police who turned unnecessary traffic from the steep, narrow street, alone marked outwardly today the preparations for last honors to the dead war president.

No marshalling of troops for the parade of sorrow was needed; no setting of lines that thousands might pass beside his bier, for he will go to his long sleep tomorrow in the character in which death found him—a plain American citizen with the days of his place and high dignities put aside forever.

With only the two brief religious services to mark the entombment in the vault beneath Bethlehem Chapel on the hill high above the stricken home, there was little that official Washington could do to mark its respect and admiration for the life that had ended. Had Mrs. Wilson willed otherwise, unattended honors would have been poured out to mark the nation's mourning. Even as it is, in every military and naval post beneath the Stars and Stripes last honors will be paid in full with the booming of guns sounding a knell beneath half masted colors. For the thirty day period of national mourning already declared, President Coolidge has thrust aside all social festivities at the White House.

At the home only the family and a little group of closest friends can find standing room. There can be no place for the plain folk who have no other means of expressing their sorrow and admiration than to stand for long hours along the short way where the funeral train will pass. For them as well as for himself President Coolidge will go to the house with Mrs. Coolidge and follow the casket to the place of entombment. In that public ceremony, however, he will be surrounded by his cabinet in the last honor the government can pay to a dead leader.

The family circle will be completed only a few hours before the casket is lowered into the marble vault deep beneath the cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo will reach Washington some time Wednesday morning. The private service at the home will take place at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

War department officials sought to day to make the most of the little share that was left for them in honoring a dead commander in chief under whom the army fought. Eight non-commissioned officers of the army, with eight sailors and eight marines, colleagues of similar rank and record, will follow the casket to the entombment.

Boom Smith For President

NEW YORK, February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The Alfred E. Smith-for-President National Club has been formed with headquarters at the Hotel McAlpin. Mrs. John Marshall Gallagher, New York's Commissioner of City Revenue, who is chairman of the executive committee of the club, said today the governor had not been consulted about it.

"From reports brought before the committee," she said, "the name of Alfred E. Smith is finding new supporters in many sections of states heretofore listed as being only mildly in favor of the New York governor."

"Under the slogan 'Of the People, for the People,' the National Clubs for Alfred E. Smith for president now are forming units in several of the larger cities."

Germans Send Another Protest

BERLIN, February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The German government has addressed a note to France and Belgium urging the immediate withdrawal of the customs measures whereby it contends the occupied territory is from a politico-economic point of view converted into completely foreign territory, so far as Germany is concerned. It alleges "among other things" that the importation of French and Belgian goods is favored by the reduction of the duties on these articles.

An official announcement in this regard says:

"The loss to German economy and German finance is enormous. The earnest and hitherto successful attempt by the German government to stabilize its budget will be jeopardized if this state of affairs is allowed to continue."

German Embassy Refrains From Making Any Display Of Mourning For Wilson

WASHINGTON, February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—By direction of the Berlin government the German embassy has refrained from making any display of mourning for Woodrow Wilson.

No flag has been flown over the embassy at any time since Mr. Wilson's death, although the other embassies and legations have had their colors half masted since the official notification reached them before noon on Sunday.

Bernard Leopold, Russian third secretary at the embassy, made this explanation:

"The German government considers the late Mr. Woodrow Wilson a private citizen and therefore has instructed the German embassy to refrain from any official display of mourning."

When Mr. Wilson died, the state department, following the diplomatic custom in such events, notified the French ambassador, Jules Jusserand, who is dean of the diplomatic corps. The ambassador promptly notified all of his colleagues and flags on the diplomatic missions were at once displayed at half mast. Failure of the German embassy to show its colors in mourning was not at first noted. When the lack of a flag was observed and an inquiry as to the reason made at the embassy, Baron Plessen made his statement. State department officials would not comment.

The Austrian Legation also failed to display a flag today, but officials said they would fly their country's ensign at half mast on the day of the funeral. The flag of the Hungarian Legation has been at half mast since Mr. Wilson's death was announced.

PASADENA, CALIF., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Bandits garbed in blue overalls, swooped down on the Andale Golf Club course near here yesterday in a newly painted red automobile, held up a foursome of wealthy business men at the sixth hole and motored off across the fairways with $200 in currency gleaned from the players, according to the police.

The victims were B. N. Andrews, retired capitalist of Pasadena; J. R. Martin, wealthy business man of Minneapolis; F. W. Cooke, Cleveland real estate operator, and J. J. Crowley, Detroit dry goods merchant.

TRIBUTES PAID TO WILSON REFLECT VERDICT OF HISORY ON HIS ACCOMPLISHMENTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Woodrow Wilson has passed into history. Partisanship, an attribute of life's fitful struggle, has vanished before death's mellowing influence. Republicans and Democrats, friends and foes politically, unite in recognition of the supreme effort made by a leader of world thought to raise the standards of international morality.

For four and a half years the death of Woodrow Wilson has been anticipated—ever since his breakdown at Wichita, Kansas, the end of a life given to a great cause has been confidently expected. But not until the hour of death itself did anybody realize the emotional reaction which today sweeps the National Capitol, the seat of Woodrow Wilson's greatest battles.

AKRON, O., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Council action to bring street cars back on a six cent basis with universal transfers, may be taken this afternoon.

Action will depend primarily upon petitions which will be presented to council by nearly 1,000 car men, who were discharged from service when street cars ceased operations last Friday.

The men claim they have between 30,000 and 40,000 signatures of individuals requesting street cars at a six cent fare.

If councilmen should enact an ordinance granting a six cent fare, it would be a repudiation of Mayor Rybolt's "nickel or nothing" policy. Rybolt was still insistent today that if street cars are returned, they must operate on a five cent fare with free transfers.

At the same time, the mayor has reports from bus operators that under existing conditions, they can operate on a five cent fare and make money. The city is taking a complete check to determine just what the buses are doing.

Akron Wants Cars Back

WOOD, a former postmaster here, was shot and killed late last night in a fight with police who sought to search his automobile for contraband liquor.

Wood, who the police say, was crazed from the excessive use of moonshine, resisted the officers when they stopped his car. He opened fire on them and Patrolman Ben Comer was shot in the chest. The force of the bullet was broken when it passed through the windshield and the policeman escaped with a flesh wound. Reinforcements of police ran to the spot and Wood again opened fire. It was returned and he was killed. Eight bullets were found in his body.

Cross Examine Unger

TOLEDO, O., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Cross Examination of Adolph Unger, former mayor of Tiffin, with twenty-four other defendants on trial in federal court for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, was resumed Tuesday morning.

The government has a number of rebuttal witnesses who will be placed on the stand before attorneys for both the government and the defense will make their arguments. The charge of Judge John M. Killits to the jury, it is expected, will consume considerable time due to the large number of defendants.

Seven Perish Eating Beans

ALBANY, ORE., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Botulism poison in home preserved beans caused the deaths yesterday and early today of seven persons and affected three others so seriously that little hope is held for their recovery. The beans, which had spoiled after being preserved, were eaten at a family dinner Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhold Gerber.

The dead are:

Mrs. Paul Gerber, 24; Hilda Gerber, 10; Mary Gerber, 7; Gottfried Reihling; Mrs. Gottfried Reihling; Werner Yunker, 10; Reinhold Gerber.

Seriously ill:

Paul Gerber, Arthur Gerber and John Reihling.

Two persons, Mrs. Reinhold Gerber and Margaret Gerber, and infant, were the only ones of the twelve persons at the dinner who escaped the poison. They did not eat the infected food.

Mrs. Gerber told authorities she noticed the beans seemed slightly spoiled when she opened the jar, but she thought they would not hurt any one. Werner Yunker is said to have spoken of a peculiar odor and taste when he ate them.

None of the deaths occurred until morning, more than twenty-four hours after the dinner.

Ex-Charleston, W. Va. Postmaster Killed

CHARLESTON, W. VA., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Robert F. Wood, a former postmaster here, was shot and killed late last night in a fight with police who sought to search his automobile for contraband liquor.

But the royal ambitions and the royal stomach don't mix. This was painfully demonstrated on the recent voyage of the Spanish ruler to Italy. His majesty was terribly sick most of the time.

Many Trains Snowbound; Wires Down, Cities Isolated

WASHINGTON, February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The storm over the middle west is moving slowly northward, the weather bureau said today. It will bring general precipitation during the next twenty-four to thirty-six hours over states east of the Mississippi river except in the extreme south. Temperatures will rise in the North Atlantic States tonight and in New England Wednesday, while considerably colder weather will overcast the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the East Gulf and South Atlantic states tonight and Wednesday, and the lower lake region and the middle Atlantic states Wednesday. The storm that was central over Missouri Monday morning has moved very slowly northward and it is centered over Indiana this morning. It has been accompanied by rain, snow and sleet in various sections.

Worst Blizzard In Many Years
MILWAUKEE, WIS., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Loss to telegraph, telephone and transportation lines as a result of the storm in this section today was estimated at $1,000,000.

Trains were reported stalled and telegraphic and telephonic communication with the rest of the state was demoralized.

It was said to be the worst blizzard in many years.

Street cars were stalled and early today taxicab companies were refusing calls except when on street car lines as they would not attempt to brave the wide streets.

O' course most folks don't appreciate the kind of weather they're getting down here until they read about what other states are gettin' then they hunt around for something else to complain about. Here's for tomorrow:

OHIO—Rain changing to snow. Colder tonight. Wednesday local snows and colder.

NEW YORK—Local snows tonight, probably Wednesday morning, followed by cloudy weather Wednesday. Much colder tonight. Colder in east and central portions Wednesday.

The extremes in local temperature today were: High, 57; low, 42.

Lopped Off The Payroll

LOBAIN, O., February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Thirty-five policemen and firemen were dropped from the city payroll last night when city council passed an ordinance calling for retrenchment in the safety department to enable the city to live within its 1924 income.

The cut becomes effective in twenty days and will effect a saving of approximately $75,000 this year.

Your OWN home is the place to raise children

Maybe You Have The Wrong Idea

Some people think that we are trying to serve only those who are planning homes. That's not correct.

We ask everybody to invest savings here who want a safe and good paying service. Fact is, we need several savers to furnish the funds for each borrower.

And every man gets well paid for the use of his money.

Furthermore, all funds are safeguarded by the finest kind of first mortgages on improved real estate.

So remember, please, we would like to have you with us, even if you don't want a home. Perhaps you already have a home.

15 Names Certified For Aiken Tax Collection

Approve 25 Percent Cut In Income Tax

WASHINGTON, February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—A twenty-five per cent reduction in all personal income taxes payable this year, was approved today by the House of Representatives.

At the same time it was decided that the tax on jewelry should be placed at five per cent, with all articles valued under $40 exempted.

That completed the Republican members' consideration of the new revenue bill in private and it will now be presented to the full committee Thursday. It probably will be reported to the house without delay.

The 25 per cent reduction in 1923 taxes would mean a saving to taxpayers this year of about $225,000,000, the treasury has estimated. Secretary Mellon has approved the scheme.

Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, recently introduced a joint resolution proposing a reduction on taxes payable this year on the basis of his general tax revision plan which would have cut the present normal income rates in half.

Under the Republican plan, the proportional excess paid in the first installment due March 15, would be refunded later, as it is believed that the measure can be enacted into law before that time.

The whole committee previously had agreed to cut in half the five per cent jewelry tax, but it was found too great a cut in revenue would result. Besides the flat $40 exemption made, all watches under $60, also, were exempted as were surgical and musical instruments, eye glasses, spectacles and silver plated flat tableware. It is estimated that as it now stands the change in this tax will mean an annual loss of $13,000,000 in revenue, placing the total reduction in indirect or miscellaneous taxes now approved by the committee at $114,000,000.

Late Tuesday afternoon County Auditor Roy Coburn certified to County Treasurer Henry B. Ruel the names of 15 soft drink parlor proprietors, who have been notified that they will be compelled to pay the Aiken Tax of $1,000 plus a 20 per cent penalty for having been accused of selling or trafficking in moonshine in their places of business.

The names were certified to Auditor Coburn by Prohibition Commissioner McDonald of Columbus and he in turn certified them over to Treasurer Ruel for collection.

If McDonald's ruling is upheld the soft drink stand parlor proprietors will be compelled to pay the $1,000 Aiken tax and a $200 penalty. If they are not able to pay, it was stated that the tax would be assessed against property owners.

Following are the soft drink proprietors who will be asked to pay the Aiken tax:

John Adams, 1921 Chillicothe; C. E. Hood, 632 Second; Joe King, 117 Market; Chas. Monk, 748 Second; Fred Walters, 1021 Chillicothe; H. C. Copley, 1024; W. H. Williams, 118 Chillicothe; Oliver Fraser, 118 Chillicothe; F. H. Heil, 418 Chillicothe; Richard McCain, 1026 Findlay; Wm. Heider, 724 Eleventh; Fred Leaguer, 1044 Union; Taylor Garner, 1037 Gallia; Newt McGraw, Gallia street.

The owners of the above properties are as follows:

Sciotoville Pythians To Form Stock Co. For the Erection of An Ideal Lodge Home

Sciotoville K. of P. lodge held an enthusiastic meeting Monday night with District Deputy H. Wells Elliott and a number of visiting knights were present from Magnolia lodge. Deputy Elliott announced that plans for the holding of a big Pythian rally in June for all knights in Lawrence, Jackson, Pike and Scioto counties were under way. Center's Caves, Jackson county, has been mentioned as the probable site for this big gathering of Pythians, which will be arranged by District and County Deputies. They will hold a meeting the first week in March at Jackson to start plans for the district affair. Members also discussed plans for their new temple and within a short time a stock company will be formed to take charge of building operations. Sciotoville lodge will celebrate the diamond jubilee of Pythianism Thursday night, February 21, when a program will be held in the M. E. church at Sciotoville.

W. A. Inman May Seek Honor of Representing District at National Democratic Convention

Friends of W. A. Inman, and they are legion in this city and adjacent counties, were pleased to learn Tuesday that in all probability he would be a candidate for delegate to the National Democratic Convention from the Sixth Congressional District subject to the primary to be held April 5. His friends, realizing his strength in this county and in every other county in the district feel that if he decided to make the race he would make a formidable candidate. Several years ago he sought the congressional honor from this district and made a splendid race. His friends in stating that he would be a strong candidate, point to this support of their claim. Mr. Inman is a man of character and force and his friends sincerely trust that he will enter the field, giving assurance that in the event of his election that the district would be well represented.

To Enforce Overloading Law; Name Inspectors

B. G. Harwood, William Emmert and John Keller have been appointed special deputy sheriffs by county commissioners in connection with enforcement of the law relative to the overloading of motor trucks operating over the highways. The new officers are at present connected with the staff of Charles Noel, county surveyor, and they will draw no extra compensation in connection with their duties, it was announced. The three officers will have charge of the loadometer, a device for weighing loaded vehicles, recently bought by the county, which makes it an easy matter to determine the weight of a vehicle and its burden, on the spot where it is found. Overloading of automobile trucks has resulted in much damage to Scioto county highways, according to road officials, and the special deputy sheriffs have been instructed to institute prosecutions against offenders who may catch at the initial step in an intensive campaign to be waged to stop the practice. The penalty on conviction, first offense, is a fine of from $25 to $100 and for each subsequent offense, is a fine from $100 to $1,000 or imprisonment not more than ninety days, or both fine and imprisonment.

William Atlas Stricken With Appendicitis On Train; Successfully Operated Upon in Baltimore

Stricken with appendicitis while on a train speeding to New York, where he was to have bought goods for his firm, Wm. Atlas was left in the hands of the Fashion Gallia and Gay streets, was forced to leave the train at Baltimore, where he entered a hospital and submitted to an operation for the removal of his appendix. Word from his bedside today was to the extent that he had rallied splendidly. Mr. Atlas left here at midnight Saturday night and was brought back to the city Sunday morning. A Louisville, Ky. physician, who was on the train gave up his stateroom to Mr. Atlas and informed him that it was imperative that he submit to an operation without further delay and Mr. Atlas arranged to enter a Baltimore hospital, not taking any chances on going by train to his destination. Upon reaching Baltimore, Mr. Atlas was met by his brother-in-law and sister, Rabbi and Mrs. Blinckoff (Ruth Atlas). Mrs. William Atlas left Monday afternoon to be at her husband's bedside.

Planning To Revive Korn Karnival

Members of the Portsmouth Retail Merchants' Association at their regular meeting Monday night discussed the possibility of staging another Korn Karnival this Fall. After a number of those present spoke in favor of the project the matter of appointing a committee to consider its revival was left in the hands of President James Distel. This committee will report next month at the regular meeting scheduled for March 3. This gathering will be a get-together affair for all merchants in the city, whether they belong to the Association or not. To assist Secretary George W. Woodward in getting out a banner attendance President James Distel has appointed a committee on attendance with one representative from each trade on the committee. This representative will be responsible for the attendance of all merchants engaged in the same line of business as himself. On The Committee Among those named as members of this committee are: Ben Stewart and I. B. Thompson, responsible for bringing out a representative attendance of Portsmouth merchants; William Tritzschler, electrical dealer; Louis Levi, furniture dealer; Ed Appel, hardware dealer; Marvin C. Clark, building and loan association; Henry W. Heer, banks; Albert Zoelner, jeweler; John Wilhelm, printers; Henry Adler, ladies ready-to-wear; Chester Rigles, clothier; J. H. Stewart and George Wurster, druggists; E. C. Hood, dry goods merchants; E. A. Johnson, auto dealers; and Albert Graf, lumber dealers. Representatives of the different lines of business establishments will be seated at separate tables, according to plans for the meeting. An out-of-town speaker is being arranged for. Secretary Woodward will call a meeting of members of the committee for Wednesday, February 27, at 1 o'clock in the Elks' Club, to make final arrangements for the big meeting.

MEMORIAL SERVICES TO BE HELD IN HIGH SCHOOL WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON; HENRY T. BANNON TO BE SPEAKER

WANTED—Large picture of ex-President Wilson for use at community memorial exercises at high school auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Picture 2 feet by 4 feet or larger desired.

Services befitting the occasion have been planned for Wednesday afternoon at the high school auditorium where the community is urged to gather to pay respect to the memory of Ex-President Woodrow Wilson whose funeral services will be held at the same hour in Washington.

Two-thirty o'clock is the time set for the memorial program here tomorrow afternoon, the service to be one in which the entire community is urged to take part. Plans for such a special meeting of the executive committee of the American Legion was held with several other interested persons present.

Hon. Henry T. Bannon has been secured to deliver a short address on Mr. Wilson, speaker of the service, under the direction of Prof. Elmer Ende and Battery B will take part to lend a military air to the farewell services.

Chaplains Rev. W. H. Gleiser of James Dickey Post and Rev. C. E. Severinghaus of Franklin Avenue M. E. Church will also have a part in the service, over which Representative Adam Frick will preside as chairman.

The program completed at a luncheon meeting of the committee Tuesday noon at the Mary Louise is as follows:

Opening Remarks — Adam Frick, Chairman.

Invocation — Rev. W. H. Gleiser, Chaplain.

Special Music — Arranged by Prof. Elmer Ende.

Address — Attorney Henry T. Bannon.

Special Music — Arranged by Prof. Elmer Ende.

Announcements — (that reminder of service will be held in front of high school) — Mr. Frick.

Benediction — Rev. C. E. Severinghaus.

Hoisting of flag, Taps and Salute. That part of the service in the high school auditorium closes with announcement by Chairman Frick that all will adjourn to the front of the high school building, that part of the structure at the head of the steps, leading into the building, where the final part of the program will be held.

As the flag goes to full mast and taps are sounded, Rev. Severinghaus will lead in final prayer, a signal being given almost at the same time for the firing of a salute by Battery B.

Battery B will have their big guns stationed at the foot of Chillicothe street and the full presidential salute of 21 guns will be fired. A signal for the salute will be sent from the high school following the flag raising and benediction. William Fyffe of the Legion will have charge of the flag exercises on the high school lawn.

The veterans of the G. A. R. headed by Commander J. J. Davidson and Mayor Ralph Calvert will have places on the platform in the auditorium which is being decorated for the services.

In order that all who desire may attend the services the business men are urged to close their places for a short time Wednesday afternoon. Mayor Ralph Calvert has issued a proclamation urging a general closing of business places so that all might take part in this memorial service for one who gave his all on the altar of sacrifice for his country. Industrial plants are to be urged to shut down for a few minutes during the services.

At last night's meeting Mr. Frick was chosen chairman and Attorney J. Alden Staker secretary. Prof. H. H. Eccles was named chairman of a committee on speakers. Harold Clayton, chairman of the committee on program, Prof. Elmer Ende, chairman of the committee on music and Walter Kogel chairman of the decorating committee. Mayor Ralph Calvert, Commander Davidson of the G. A. R., and Captain Theron Matthews and Carey Williams of Battery B and the Combat Train were also present last night and promised their support for such a program.

At the luncheon today when the plans were finally arranged the following were present: Adam Frick, Mayor Calvert, H. H. Eccles, Harold Clayton, Carey Williams, Attorney J. Alden Staker, D. E. Gardner and Walter Kogel.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Gordon Thompson, piano salesman, found guilty by a Common Pleas court jury several weeks ago under a charge of assault with intent to commit rape upon Mrs. Nellie Potts at her home in Wheelersburg, was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory for a term of one year by Judge Thomas yesterday after his application for a new trial had been denied.

The sentence was later suspended pending good behavior because of extenuating circumstances in favor of the defendant, who is said to be in exceedingly poor health. He was represented by Attorney Louis M. Day, of Chillicothe.

YES, YOUTH MUST BE SERVED

The following is from the Scioto Gazette, Chillicothe:

Ruth O'Leary, Geneva Berry, Louise Thoroughman and Corinne Dearth, four Portsmouth young women, inaugurated a new Sunday sport. Leaving Portsmouth, knickerblad, Sunday morning for a hike, they "bummed" a ride toward Chillicothe. After a couple of car changes they reached here, spent the day with friends and then prepared to "bum" their way back. For they had left Portsmouth with 2 cents as the sum total of their treasury.

Monthly Reports Are Made

Following is the monthly report for the Community Chorus and Home For Aged Women, two of the organizations receiving funds from the Community Chest:

Community Chorus Prof. Elmer Ende, in charge of the Community Chorus, advises that they have planned activities starting February first. Consequently there could be no report covering the month of January.

Home For Aged Women Expended during the month of January, $349.93.

This amount was expended in the household expenses and care of eleven (11) women and nurse. Also took care of fire insurance and fire extinguisher.

Grandview Ave. Church News

A meeting of special importance will be held at the Grandview Avenue Christian church Wednesday evening at 7:15. The pastor has chosen for his subject "The Officers of the Church." At eight o'clock, the members of the Loyal Men's Bible Class will hold their regular monthly meeting. A special program has been arranged. Members of the Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the church Wednesday afternoon. Friday evening at 7:15, the members of the choir will practice.

Held To Grand Jury

Pleading not guilty and waiving examination when brought into Municipal court, Charles E. Day, alias Harry E. Davis, 36 years old, was held for grand jury action on a forgery charge by Judge Sprague Tuesday.

The defendant, who was apprehended in Dayton, O., and returned here, is accused of passing an invalid check for $100 issued on the First National Bank of Fairmont, W. Va., in the name of The Day Light Company, by George W. Perkins, manager, on December 10, 1923, when a guest at the Washington Hotel. The check, which was cashed by E. V. Leach, manager of the hotel, was returned marked "no funds" and an investigation started disclosed that the Day Light company had suspended business in 1913.

The prisoner was returned here from Dayton by Sergeant C. C. Zeigler last night. In default of bond he was committed to the county jail.

Denied New Trial; Showman Sent To Pen

William H. West, 50 years old, Cleveland showman, convicted a week ago by a Common Pleas court jury of procuring signatures under false pretenses, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas, Monday, after his application for a new trial had been denied.

West was found to be guilty of procuring the signatures of C. O. Massa and five other local men to a joint note by making false representations in connection with the ownership of certain show equipment and real estate. The transaction occurred in May, 1923, and the note in question was in the sum of $3,500, which represents the amount obtained by West on it, less discount charges, at a local bank. It was at the trial that the note was paid by the endorsers when it fell due.

West was defended by Attorneys Mark Crawford, of this city, and Louis M. Day, of Chillicothe. West will probably be taken to Columbus along with Elliott Stephens by Sheriff Dunham, Wednesday, to start their terms of a year each. Stephens was sentenced Saturday on a manslaughter charge for the killing of Henderson Smith near Haverhill last October.

Rehearsals Begin For Spring Festival of Music; Ironton To Join Production

Forty-five members of the Community Chorus were present at the Public library last night for the first of twelve rehearsals in anticipation of the spring music festival.

Several numbers which are to be presented at that time, were gone over last night under the directions of Prof. Elmer Ende. Date for the big song entertainment has been tentatively set for the first week in May.

Ironton is to join with the local chorus in the presentation, which will be repeated at the up-river city. The Chorus is still open to membership. Several were present last night who had joined since the last meeting of the organization, and all others interested in Community singing are asked to get in touch with the organization.

Ford Pays Tribute To Wilson And Wife

DETROIT, MICH., Feb. 5.—(By the A. P.)—Tribute to former President Wilson and the devotion of his wife was paid today by Henry Ford in commenting upon the passing of the wartime president.

"Woodrow Wilson will rank with our greatest presidents," said Mr. Ford. "Events made him a world figure and his legacy to humanity was his idea of a league of nations. His death can be directly attributed to the zeal with which he pursued his ideal."

"It is gratifying to the nation to think that during his last long fight he had the constant companionship of Mrs. Wilson, whose service to the war president during his illness has won the admiration of all our people."

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lauter, well-known and highly respected residents of the city, quietly celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary today at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wigham, 326 Seventh street, with whom they have been making their home for the past year. Mr. and Mrs. Lauter are both in very poor health and for this reason no large celebration was planned.

The meeting of the Philatelic Class of the First Baptist church has been changed from Tuesday, February 26th, until Thursday, February 28th, on account of the two weeks' revival to be held at the church the latter part of the month.

The Westminster Circle of the Second Presbyterian church will meet at the Girls' Department banquet, which will be held in the church parlors on Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock, instead of at the home of Miss Doris Pyles as previously announced. Arrangements for a play to be given in the near future will be made at the time and election of officers for the new year will be held. All members are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Gehring and family of Vernon street had as their guests Sunday for dinner the parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Molster, Carl Keller and sisters, Misses Margaret and Mary Keller of Portsmouth, who motored to Ironton for the day's visit. —Ironton Register.

Miss Goldie Jones of Chillicothe street returned this morning to Ohio University at Athens after a few days' visit at home.

Mrs. Caroline Rowe of Sinton street, who has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clements, of Los Angeles, for ten weeks, will arrive home Friday. While on the Coast she also visited many other places and has had a most delightful trip.

BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR 30 YEARS

"It Did Me Good," Says Painter Who Uses It for Headache, Indigestion and Liver Trouble.

"Having Green, Ky.—I don't just remember how many years I have used Black-Draught," says Mr. Frank Burnett, a painter and song writer, of 300 Park street, this city, "but I've used it longer than I've known my wife—that is over thirty years—and I've found it a wonderful friend."

"When a young man," he says, "we kept Black-Draught in our home and I would take it for headache, indigestion and liver trouble. It did me good. I used it until we married, and then my daughters grew up and they used it, and we hardly know how to get along without it."

"I am a painter and the paint affects the stomach. When I need anything for stomach trouble, I take a good dose or two of the Black-Draught and I am all right. . . . It relieves indigestion and cleanses the liver best of anything I ever used."

"The Black-Draught has been a well-known, successful liver medicine for over eighty years. Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs, it is nature's own remedy for a tired, worn-out liver."

Three Are Fined for Gun Toting, One For Possession Following Raid Near Powellsville

Following a raid staged in German Hollow, near Powellsville, by State Troopers Officers Amick and Lemon, four men giving the names of Alvin Jones, Samuel Lewis, Joseph Lett and Bud Hale were arrested.

In Mayor Bierley's court in Nov. Boston last night Hale, who was found guilty of possession, was fined $300 and costs. His attorney, H. L. Small, gave notice of an appeal and the case will be taken to a higher court. Jones, Lewis and Lett were found guilty of gun-toting and were fined $50 and costs each.

According to the arresting officers, Jones was attired in a soldier's suit and was the lookout for Hale's place. He had a .38 Smith and Wesson revolver in his possession when disarmed by Amick.

Better Housing Meeting Wednesday

Further impetus will be given the "better housing" campaign recently inaugurated in this city, Wednesday afternoon when Dr. Robert Paterson, of Columbus, Ohio, and health expert, will address the women of Portsmouth on the subject of "Housing Conditions As It Affects Public Health."

Mrs. E. H. Blazer was chosen chairman of the general committee on survey and to this committee will fall the important task of gathering the facts about the housing situation as it exists in some sections of the city.

Dr. Paterson, who comes as a recognized leader in his field, is a splendid speaker and has an interesting message for his auditors. The meeting will be held in the public library auditorium, and he will start his address at three o'clock. A general invitation has been issued to the women of Portsmouth to attend and a big throng of those interested in the movement is expected to be present.

At a meeting Monday Mrs. William S. Scullard, of Waller street, was chosen permanent chairman of the women's organization and Mrs. E. C. McCoy and Mrs. T. G. McCormick were named first and second vice chairmen, respectively.

NEW TREATMENT RIDES YOU OF RHEUMATIC PAINS QUICKLY

No Medicine to Take. Results Guaranteed by Local Druggists

The well-known physicist, Alessandro Volta for whom the electric volt was named, has made a scientific discovery that produces marvelous results with the most stubborn and agonizing cases of rheumatism, where the old-fashioned risky internal drug treatment has failed.

This famous discovery, which revolutionizes old ideas about the cause and proper treatment of rheumatism, is an external remedy, intended to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet.

The eminent Italian scientist has compounded a powder called Volta, that, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to be absorbed almost immediately into the blood, thus acting upon certain poisons now definitely determined to be the cause of most rheumatic agony.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and in Italy that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to place Volta with an unconditional guarantee of relief from the use of the very first package or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta with an absolute guarantee of quick relief, from such good druggists as Stewart's Cut Rate Drug Store, Warner Bros., and Fisher & Streich. —Advertisement.

Bandit Killed, Others Captured

In Gun Battle With Police

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Charles Sanborn was shot and killed and Bryan Keenan was shot twice and captured in gun battle yesterday at their rendezvous in a suburb where police located them for alleged participation in several holdups and burglaries. They had also been hunted for several weeks as suspects in the recent murder of John Rau, a bakery wagon driver. More than seventy-five shots were fired in the gun battle.

Ferdinand Mischtscher, another companion, also was captured. It was the most desperate and sensational gun battle fought between the police and gunmen since the duel with the notorious "Jiggs" Lostener, gang leader at Bedford, Ohio, three years ago. Like that battle, it, too, was fought in the suburbs.

Is Hit Six Times
Sanborn was shot a half dozen times. Mischtscher was found by the police after the smoke of battle had cleared away, hidden under a bed in a little cottage in which the men had lived for two months. The police went to the rendezvous on information received from Mrs. Florence Columbia, who rented the cottage. She recognized Keenan's picture printed in a local newspaper this morning after he escaped from Patrolman Heidrich, who was taking him to a police station. Mrs. Columbia and her sons, Marcel, five, and Earl, two, watched the battle from a remodeled garage in the rear of the cottage. Sanborn fell mortally wounded just two feet from the thin wall of the garage.

Several thousand dollars' worth of stolen goods and a number of rifles, volvers and burglar's tools were found in the cottage. Among them was the revolver of Patrolman Heidrich, which Keenan took before fleeing yesterday.

Sanborn and Mischtscher have served terms and were out on parole.

Judge Orders Franchise Of

House Of David Dissolved

LANSING, MICH., Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—An order dissolving the corporate franchise of the House of David colony was issued by Judge Leland Carr in circuit court here yesterday. The action followed an agreement by counsel for the state and the cult and gave the state an uncontested victory in the quo warrant suit it instituted at the first step in its avowed effort to break up and disband the colony.

By virtue of the order, the Israelite House of David, the church of the New Eve and the Body of Christ Inc. are no more. But the Israelite House of David, a religious association, still exists, and the colony will operate as it has for twenty years, pending further developments.

The real fight in the state's litigation against the Berrien county organization is still to come. The ouster order is expected to be followed by a separate proceeding in which the state will ask that a receiver be appointed.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap, but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time. It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the mucus, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

AKRON, Feb. 5.—It required a jury of eleven men and one woman only thirty minutes to find Alexander Kusczik, 10, guilty of first degree murder without a recommendation of mercy today. Kusczik beat Elizabeth Nagy, his 13-year-old cousin, to death with a hammer November 6, after attacking her in her home during her parents' absence because he said "she did not return his love."

The penalty provided by law is the electric chair. Judge E. D. Fritch declared he will not pronounce sentence for several days.

Counsel for the defendant announced a petition for a new trial will be filed tomorrow. After committing the crime, Kusczik said he walked the street for several hours before he decided to tell the police. He then surrendered and made a confession.

The interesting side panels extending from the shoulders to within a few inches of the coat's hem are useful as well as enticingly decorated, since on them are placed the pockets. The perky collar, the turn-back cuffs and the pockets are marked with simple embroidery. The fabric is a rich velour, the lining Corticelli Crepe de chine.

The Usual "Winter Crop" of Fires is being reported from practically every part of the state. There have been few large fires—but many, many small blazes in homes and stores.

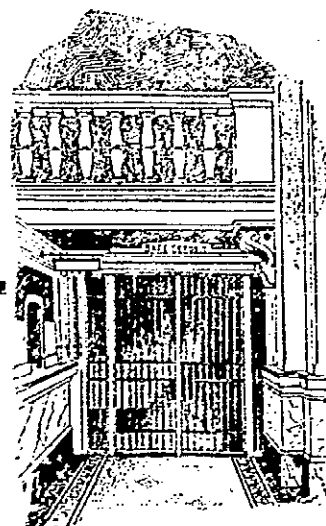

These are just the fires that cause the average family or individual the most loss—no small part of which can be prevented by the use of SAFETY DEPOSIT FACILITIES.

The prudent thing to do is to AT ONCE remove your valuables and valuable papers to a place of security, to our Safe Deposit Vaults. Individual boxes are available at $3 yearly and up.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I wish you would tell me how to get out of this old burg—they call it a city, but I say it isn't anything but a country Jake town. It is nothing to compare with New York City. I used to live in New York and it is the greatest city in the world. You bet your sweet life you can walk around in that town and see the people from Brooklyn Bridge to the Jersey Coast don't know your business. If you happen to step out in this old town, everyone knows your affairs from the Boulevard to the Bridge. If I went to New York with you, I think I could get in with the best society, like the Vanderbilts, Gouds and the Rockefellers without telling them that my ancestors came over on the Mayflower? If they find out that my parents were born in Kentucky, I am doomed. Also if I get into the best of society, will I have to smoke cigarettes like the rest of the ladies? Please let me hear from you as soon as possible.

OLD KENTUCKY.

To begin with, there are two ferry boats making regular trips across the river, so I shouldn't think it would be much of an effort for you to get back to your "Old Kentucky Home," providing you have the necessary six cents. Then, too, there are trains and trams and buses leaving Portsmouth at all hours of the day and night, so you need not hesitate a minute in this burg after reading this letter. As for New York, I have been there several times myself, and I don't think it has anything on Portsmouth.

Dear Dolly—Will you tell me what to do to feel cool, and also what will take off warts? NEILAN.

A good old-fashioned remedy is to rub them with snow, but since we haven't any snow, perhaps ice, or ice water would do. If your warts aren't bothering you, why bother them? They will disappear some night and you will never know what happened to them.

Dear Dolly—Is it possible for anyone to foretell the future when they are twenty miles away from you and have never even seen you? Dolly I wrote to tell you a fortune teller asking her a question, and she answered it and I have worried about it ever since. Please tell me if you think it possible for her to tell me the truth and should I believe what she said? BOBBY.

You are very foolish to worry about what a fortune teller tells you so forget that she ever told you anything.

SHELBY, ALABAMA—Dear Dolly—I am corresponding with a sailor whom I have never seen. We have been corresponding for over a year. Dolly this boy writes nice interesting letters, but there seems to be nothing flirty about him. From his letters he seems to be a perfect gentleman, so do you think there is any harm in our corresponding. LILLIAN.

So long as you keep your letters friendly, I see no harm in keeping up the correspondence.

Dear Dolly—I was thinking of going to Cincinnati this season to see Zeigfeld's Follies. Can you tell me when they are booked for Cincinnati and if you do not know so soon, will you please print it when you find out? THANKING YOU.

So far as I know, the Follies will not leave New York City this season.

Dear Dolly—My face is covered with little clay pimples, and they just worry me to death because everybody makes remarks about them. People suggest this and that and the other and I just hate to go any place. Can you suggest anything? WORRIED GIRL.

You might regulate your diet first, eating plenty of fresh fruits and drinking plenty of water. For your pimples I would suggest alternating cold and hot showers every day. If they don't yield to this treatment, you should consult a physician and he will recommend a remedy to clear your blood.

Dear Dolly—I would like to get in touch with a middle-aged woman who could serve as a house-keeper for a widower and his children. His mother is also with him and he is very much in need of a good woman to take charge of his house. The laundry work is done on the outside and this would be a good home for the right party. Anyone interested should phone Selotville 28-Y.

INTERESTED READER.

Dear Dolly—I have such black half moons under my eyes that I would like to know how to get rid of them. MARY BELLE.

If soap and water or cold cream will not remove them, you might try going to bed a little earlier. You might supplement your beauty sleep with some outdoor exercise and the right sort of food. Eat fruits and vegetables and bathe frequently, and let me know in a few weeks if your half moons have disappeared.

Rub It On For Deep Chest Colds

ABSORBED like a liniment and at the same time INHALED as a vapor, Vicks gets immediately into congested, inflamed air passages

NEVER NEGLECT A CHEST COLD. If allowed to "hang on" it means lung tissue weakened, air passages predisposed to infection. There is then danger of pneumonia and pneumonia is now more deadly than tuberculosis.

When a cold goes down deep, with soreness, tight breathing and a heavy, hollow cough, apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores of the skin.

Massage briskly with Vicks for five minutes, then spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the affected parts.

At the same time, the penetrative and stimulative effect of Vicks through the skin increases the circulation of the blood throughout the chest region, and thus helps to relieve the tightness and congestion.

VICKS IS A BOON TO MOTHERS because it is an "outside" treatment. There is no dosing to upset a child's delicate stomach. You just rub it on.

Vicks is a combination in salve form of the old, time-tested remedies for colds—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, and other volatile oils. Being externally applied, it can be used as freely and as often as desired, even on the youngest child, with perfect safety.

When the kiddies come in wet and "sniffing" Vicks is applied to prevent colds. An application at bedtime will usually prevent a night attack of croup.

Just as good, of course, for the cold troubles of adults—sore throat, tonsillitis, head and chest colds, bronchitis, coughs.

Made at first in the back room of a little drug store in North Carolina, Vicks has so consistently demonstrated its worth that now it is more widely used than any other remedy of its kind.

How Vicks Should Be Used

For Spasmodic Croup, Children's Colds—Rub Vicks over the throat and chest until the difficult breathing is relieved, then spread on thickly and cover with a hot flannel cloth. One application at bedtime usually prevents a night attack of croup.

For Head Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever—Vicks should be melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled, or a little can be applied up the nostrils and sniffed well back up the head.

For Deep Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Tonsillitis, Bronchitis, Coughs—Rub Vicks briskly over the throat and chest. In severe cases first rub the skin to open the pores (see directions). Then spread on thickly and cover with one or two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the bedclothes loose about the neck so that the vapors may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, a small piece the size of a pea can be swallowed every two or three hours.

A SPRINGTIME RIDDLE

"Here's a springtime riddle for everybody to guess," said the Riddle Lady next day when she arrived in Riddle Town, having driven the whole way from her palace on the hill in her golden coach.

"The Riddle Lady didn't like automobiles," said Nancy politely. "This is the nicest time of year, so it must be a nice riddle."

"I can't be sure about that," answered the Riddle Lady, "because I wrote it in an awful—I mean a dreadful—or I should say, a great hurry. Company came just as I was starting it and I had to hurry it together in about five minutes. Listen now and I'll read it to you."

"Round as a teacup and lined with moss,
Woven of grass and bits of floss,
Padded with down from Mother Bird's wing,
Daddy helps to build it, while both of them sing.

"Hidden by boughs of a green spreading tree,
I can't see them, but they can see me,
Guarding the nursery they have made,
I wouldn't touch it! Why are they afraid.

"Three lovely eggs all speckled with brown,
But mostly of blue, 'twould be grand for a gown.
What can it be, this most singular thing,
Which Mother Bird lays all her eggs in the spring?

"In this round teacup old Mother Bird sits,
And time must go slowly for I don't s'pos she knits.
While Daddy goes hunting—he digs and he tugs,
And brings her a breakfast of earth-worms and bugs.

"And after a while when the birdies hatch out,
It's easy to see what the rest were about.
'Tis a cradle they builded, the finest and best,
Though to see it you'd say 'twas a dicky-bird's nest."

"Neat!" shouted everybody with one voice.

"I knew it would be too easy!" declared the Riddle Lady. "How I am ever going to divide the prize, I don't know."

"What is the prize?" asked Jack Homer.

"It's something everybody should take in the spring," said the Riddle Lady. "I made it myself. I bolted some sawdust and boneset herbs and catnip and sulphur and molasses all together and put it in a great big bottle. I have it! I'll give everybody a spoonful!"

But mind you, by the time she got the cork out 'n' everything, there wasn't a soul in sight.

Wasn't that the queerest thing ever! After all their guessing, nobody wanted the prize.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly run-down had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I was able to do my housework, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-month-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."

—Mrs. AUGUST R. WIEDERHOFF, R. No. 2, Box 84, Truman, Minnesota.

Women suffering from troubles so common to their sex should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

The Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved women of such troubles for the past fifty years. For sale by druggists everywhere.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — THE CAVE OF THE WINDS

Jack recovered his hat and then asked West Wind if he could also make smaller boats sailing along. "Why," came the reply. And West Wind suggested that Jack get in an old rowboat that stood by the shore and hold out his coat. Jack immediately ran and hopped into the boat.

"Push it away from shore," shouted West Wind, "and as soon as you get it away into the water I'll give you a real ride." Jack used an old oar from the back of the boat to push it away from shore, and he stood up and held his coat wide open. In an instant the coat caught West Wind's puffs and away Jack went.

After the rowboat had traveled a short distance, West Wind hopped from the back of the boat to the front and said, "Now I'll blow you right back again." And Jack was much amazed to see the rowboat travel backward as his coat suddenly blew out in the opposite direction. (Continued.)

Political Effect of Passing of Wilson To Be Answered By Time

WASHINGTON, February 4.—(By the Associated Press)—What will be the political effect of the passing of former President Wilson, is a question that only time can answer. From his place of retirement he has kept a keen eye on the fortunes of the party over which he once exercised not only undisputed leadership, but almost dictatorial control. He told his friends that he looked to 1924 as a year of vindication at the polls for the Democratic party principles that went into eclipse in 1920, but he never revealed to any one how far he might be prepared to go in reasserting his claim to a place in party councils.

It is certain there was no truth in the widely circulated reports that the former president planned to again become a candidate for the nomination and if he had any preference among those who are seeking to inherit his mantle of leadership he kept it from some of his closest friends. He did plan, however, to make a very definite effort to align his party behind the policies that he believed to his dying day to constitute the paramount issues before the country and the world. He expected to place before the Democratic convention in concrete form a declaration of principles, the adoption of which, to his mind, would stimulate a reconsecration to the fundamentals of democracy. Not only in regard to foreign affairs but in domestic questions as well he was preparing to lay before his party the fruits of his long months of retirement and reflection.

To the last he never wavered in his belief in the League of Nations, but it must remain one of the problems of his party whether in his declining days there was any softening of the determined stand he had taken against a compromise in the form of American participation in the League's activities. Almost his last public utterance was a reaffirmation of his complete contempt for those who had blocked the way of his proposals in the senate, but in the two days of his last illness, after he saw the end near, appeared to put some of his thoughts entirely before the public.

His plan to place his policies squarely before his party and ask for adoption was long in maturing in the months of waiting for the opportunity he saw in the office. But before he died he had made up his mind and the very few on whom he imparted his intentions knew that once Woodrow Wilson had reached a determination, nothing but the hand of death could stop him from putting it into execution.

For his power of will remained unbroken to the end—as militant as it was in the days of his dominant leadership; as determined as it was in 1910, when he threatened to pack his ship and go to St. Louis unless the convention in session there to re-nominate him, agreed to accept the kind of a plan he wanted regarding the German-Americans; as virile as it was in 1920, when he conferred in his sick room with the newly nominated Democratic candidate and astonished and sorely disappointed his enemies by making a thoroughly convincing presentation of his views, followed a few hours later by an announcement by Governor Cox that he and Mr. Wilson were in complete accord.

Once he had put his declaration of principles before the national convention the former president expected to enjoin on the party leaders to nominate a man who could stand four square on such a platform. But if he had any desire to actually select the candidate the name of the man must remain locked forever in the tomb.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores. — Advertisement.

CHAPTER I.
The Amorous Hostess.

The times were full of trouble; but Martha Quinn was unperturbed. Her was a mind that confined itself to the essentials of life; its sustenance and reproduction. Not for her to plague herself with the complexities of existence, with consideration of the hereafter or disputations upon the various creeds by which its happiness may be ensured—a matter upon which men have always been ready to send one another upon exploring voyages thither—or yet with the political opinions by which a nation is fiercely divided. Not even the preparations for war with Holland, which were agitating men so violently, or the plague-scare based upon reports of seven cases in the outskirts of the city, could disturb the serenity of her direct existence. The vices of the court, which afforded such delectable scandal for the town, touched her more nearly, as did the circumstance that yellow bird's-eye hoods were now all the rage with ladies of fashion, and the fact that London was lost in Washington—of the beauty and talent of Sylvia Parquharson, who was appearing with Mr. Belterton at the Duke's House in the part of Katharine in Lord Orrey's "Henry the Fifth."

Even so, to Martha Quinn, who very completely kept the Paul's Head, in Paul's Yard, these things were but the unimportant trifles that garnish the dish of life. It was upon life's main course that she concentrated her attention. In all that regarded meat and drink her learning—as became the hostess of so prosperous a house—was probably unrivaled. Upon these talents was her solid prosperity erected. She possessed, further—as became the mother of six sturdy children of assorted talents—a discerning eye for a fine figure of a man.

It was to this fact—although he was very far from suspecting it—that Colonel Holmes owed the good fortune of having lodged in luxury for the last month without ever a reckoning asked or so much as a question on the subject of his means. Mrs. Quinn had assigned to his exclusive use a cozy little parlor behind the common room. On the window-seat of this little parlor he now lounged, whilst Mrs. Quinn herself, and the day was long past in which it had been her need or habit with her own plump hands to perform so menial an office—removed from the table the remains of his very solid breakfast.

Observing him furtively, with a furtiveness, indeed, that was almost habitual to her, Mrs. Quinn pursued her task, moving between table and sideboard, and hesitated to break in upon his attraction. She was a woman on the short side of middle height, well tipped and deep of bosom, but not excessively. The phrase "plump as a partridge" might have been invented to describe her. In age she cannot have been much short of forty, and whilst not without a certain homely comeliness, in no judgement had her own could she have been accounted beautiful. Very blue of eye and very ruddy of cheek, she looked the embodiment of health; and this rendered her not unpleasant. But the discerning would have perceived greed in the full-mouth with its long upper lip, and six cunning Nature's compensation for low intelligence could be vivid eyes.

It remains, however, that she was endowed with charms enough of person and fortune to attract Coleman, the bookseller from the corner of Paul's Yard, and Appleby, the mercer from Paternoster Row. She might marry either of them, when she pleased. But she did not please. Her regard for essentials rendered the knock-knees of Appleby as repulsive to her as the bow-legs of Coleman. Of late, it was true, the thought of marriage had been engaging her. She realized that the age of adventure touched its end for her, and that the time had come to take a life companion and settle soberly. Fifty years of good management, prosperity, and thrift at the Paul's Head had made her wealthy. When she pleased she could leave Paul's Yard, acquire a modest demesne in the country, and become one of the ladies of the land, a position for which she felt herself eminently qualified. That which her birth might have done poor justice to her nature, a husband could supply. Often of late had her cunning blue eyes been narrowed in mental review of this situation. What she required for her purposes was a gentleman born and bred whom fortune had reduced in circumstances, a man who, therefore, be modest in the matter of matrimonial ambitions, he must also be a proper man.

Such a man she had found at last in Colonel Holmes. From the moment when a month ago he strided into her inn followed by an urdlin shouldering his valise and packages, and delivered himself upon his inn duties, she had recognized him for the husband she sought, and marked him for her own. At a glance she had perceived him; the tall, soldierly figure, broad to the waist, thence spare to the ground; the handsome face, shaven like a Puritan's, yet set between clusters of gold-brown hair thick as a cavalier's periwig, the long, pear-shaped, ruby—a relic, no doubt, of more prosperous days—dangling from his high forehead; the long sword upon whose pommel his left hand rested with the easy grace of long habit; the assured poise, the air of command, the pleasant yet authoritative voice. All this she observed with those vivid, narrowing eyes of hers. And she observed, the gentleman's disreputable shabbiness; the frayed corners of his long boots; the drooping, faded feather in his Flemish heaver; the well-rubbed leather jerkin, worn, no doubt, to conceal the threadbare state of doubt underneath.

He had business in town, he announced at Court, he added. It might detain him there some little while. He required lodgings perhaps for a week or perhaps for longer. Could she provide them?

And although it was now a full month since his arrival and in all that time our gentleman had been lavishly entertained upon the best meat and drink the Paul's Head could offer, yet in all that time there had been—repeat—no further mention of a reckoning, nor question of his means to satisfy it.

Her housewifely operations being ended at last—after a prolongation which could be carried to no further lengths—she overcame her hesitation to break in upon his thoughts, which must be gloomy, indeed, if his countenance were a proper index.

As she addressed him now, she held in her hand the long, never-veiled, from which he had taken his morning draught.

"Is there aught yet for comfort, Colonel?"

He stirred, turned his head, to face her, and took the pipstern from between his lips.

HE TOOK THE PIPESTERN FROM BETWEEN HIS LIPS.

"Nothing, I thank you," he answered, with a gravity that had been growing upon him in the last fortnight, to overlook the earlier good humor of his hearing.

"What—nothing?" The buxom siren's ruddy face was creased in an alluring smile. Albeit now she held the tankard, tilting her slim golden head. "Not another draught, Colonel before you go forth?" she coaxed him.

As he looked at her now, he smiled. And it had been left on record by one who knew him well that his smile was irresistible, a smile that could always win him the man or woman upon whom he bestowed it. It had a time of coming suddenly upon a face that in repose was wistful, like sunshine breaking suddenly from a gray sky.

"I vow you spoil me," said he. She beamed upon him. "Isn't that the duty of a proper hostess?"

She set the tankard on the laden tray and bore it out with her. When she brought it back replenished, and placed it on a coffin-slab beside him, he had changed his attitude, but not his mood of thoughtfulness. He roused himself to thank her.

She hovered near until he had taken a pull of brown October.

"Do you go forth this morning?"

"Aye," he answered, with a weary, as if repudiated, hopelessness. "They told me I should find my grace returned today. But they have told me the same so often already that..."

He sighed, and broke off, leaving his doubts implied. "Sometimes wonder if they but make game of me."

"Make game of you?" Horror stressed her voice. "When the Duke is your friend?"

"Ah! But that was long ago. And men change... amazingly sometimes." Then he cast off the oppression of his pessimism. "But if there's to be a war, surely there will be commands in which to employ a practiced soldier—especially one who has experienced of the enemy, experience gained on one's own services."

It was as if he uttered aloud his thoughts.

She frowned at this.

"I marvel now," she said, "that you will be vexing yourself with such matters."

He looked at her. "A man must live," he explained.

"But that's no reason why he should go to the wars and likely die, isn't there been enough of that in your life already? At your age a man's mind should be on other things."

"At my age?" He laughed a little. "I am but thirty-five."

She betrayed her surprise. "You look more."

"Perhaps I have lived more. I have been very busy."

"Trying to get yourself killed. Don't it occur to you that the time has come to be thinking of something else?"

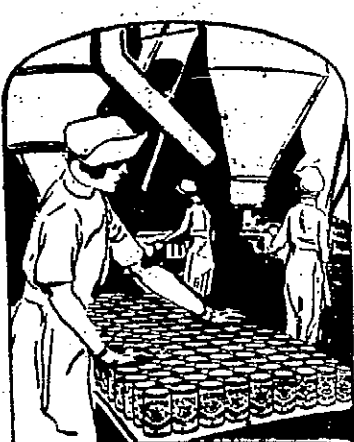

He gave her a mildly puzzled glance, frowning a little.

"You mean?"

"It's time you thought of settling, taking a wife and making a home and a family."

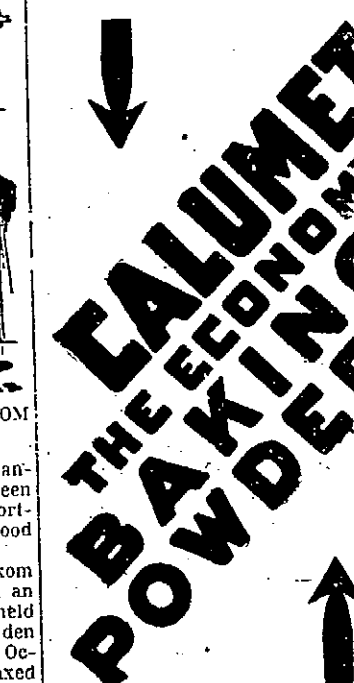

"Excellent advice," said he, still laughing on a note of derision that obviously was aimed at himself. "Find me a lady who is well endowed and yet so little fastidious in her tastes that she could make shift with such a husband as I should afford her, and the thing is done."

Charles Herbert Levermore Winner of Bok Peace Award

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Charles Herbert Levermore, of New York, a student of international relations, writer and former college professor, has been announced as the winner of the 100,000 prize offered by Edward W. Bok, Philadelphia publisher, for the best plan to preserve peace among the nations of the world.

Dr. Levermore was announced as the winner by John W. Davis, of the policy committee of the American peace award, at a meeting of the Academy of Music. Mr. Davis also presented him with $50,000, half of Mr. Bok's prize. The remainder will be given only if the plan is accepted by congress. Dr. Levermore's plan was number 1469 in a total of 22,165 received.

Is An Authority
The winner of the plan, the text of which was made public some weeks ago, the name of the author being kept secret, has long been a student of international affairs and has written a number of books on that general subject. He has been an instructor in various colleges, including the University of California and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and for eighteen years was president of Adelphi College, Brooklyn. He was born October 15, 1856, in Mansfield, Conn., and was graduated from Yale College in 1879. He is a member of the Republican party. Since 1917 he has been secretary of the New York Peace Society.

When the American Association for International Co-operation was formed he was named secretary, and with other officers of that body helped form the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association in 1923.

Acknowledges Honor
In acknowledging gratefully "the official honor conferred upon me by the committee of judges and the generous reward that comes with that honor," Dr. Levermore said, he felt "deeply conscious of the binding obligation which such an honor places upon the recipient."

"The experience that culminates this evening," Dr. Levermore added, "contributes for me both a crown and a challenge. It calls to continued service in the ranks, among those who are ever marching toward universal international co-operation for the common welfare and for the maintenance of peace with justice under law."

Co-operation with other nations in the ways of the two Hague conferences, Dr. Levermore asserted, "was equally acceptable to both of our great parties."

Such Democrats as Judge Parker, Wm. Jennings Bryan, George Gray and John Bassett Moore supported it. Among Republicans it was powerfully promoted by the states of the mighty by President McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft, by Andrew W. White, John Hay, Joseph H. Choate, and last but not least, by Elihu Root.

Accord Is Broken
"Unfortunately, since that time that earlier happy accord has been broken," he said, "this beautiful ideal has been enveloped in untoward disguises of national ambitions and rivalries and envenomed by personal animosities. But beneath these alien wrappings the spirit yet lives."

The peace award winner paid tribute to Presidents Wilson and Harding, saying "it seems to me that all these statesmen have been responding, some more conspicuously than others, to a distant and controlling force of central, international, fraternalization toward better democratic unity."

Fall Ordered To Reappear To Testify Friday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Albert B. Fall, central figure in the naval oil lease investigation, was notified today that his re-appearance before the senate investigating committee would be deferred until Friday because of the adjournment of the senate until Thursday, out of respect to the memory of former President Woodrow Wilson.

The one time secretary of the interior, who has challenged the authority of the committee to proceed with the inquiry, had been summoned for tomorrow for further efforts to examine him, will be postponed until the senate has given the committee an additional grant of authority. This will be asked for on Thursday.

Carl P. Biggerman, assistant cashier of the Chase National Bank of New York, is to be called on Thursday. Mr. Biggerman has been directed to bring the records of the Chase National Bank relating to any remittance of any funds by that bank to any bank in Washington payable to the order of Harry F. Sinclair or his personal counsel, J. W. Zerkley, between September 1, 1921, and June 1, 1923. Mr. Sinclair obtained the lease to the Teapot Dome reserve on April 7, 1922.

To Examine Recorder
Samuel Ungerleider and officials of other Washington brokerage firms have been summoned for tomorrow but whether they will be called then was undetermined tonight. The committee will seek from them permission to have their books examined in an effort to determine whether there was any dealing by any government officials in the stock of the Mammoth Oil company, organized by the Sinclair interests to take over the Teapot Dome lease.

Meanwhile the special counsel appointed by President Coolidge to initiate court proceedings in the oil lease cases, is pressing his work forward. Former Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, who accepted appointment last Saturday in place of former Attorney General Gregory, conferred today with members of the senate committee.

Probably the first step to be taken by Mr. Pomeroy and his Republican associate, Silas H. Strawn, will be the filing of injunction suits to prohibit the further extraction of oil from California reserve number 1, and the Teapot Dome field.

Demented Man Killed By Police

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Frank Mulce, who for more than twelve hours successfully defended himself against several squads of police, died yesterday in a hospital from a bullet wound in the temple received when he took refuge in a closet in a room where he had barricaded himself. Police Sergeant Charles Shearer was shot in the arm during the siege, but was not seriously wounded.

Mulce, armed with a revolver, hatchet and a butcher knife, standing guard at the head of a stairway, on the second floor of a rooming house, had succeeded in standing off the police all last night. For gas bombs, opiate administered in coffee he called for at intervals and attempts at surprise attacks had failed to spoil his command of the situation.

Finally Mulce went into a bedroom. In rushing his stronghold, the police fired four times through the door before it was forced open. As the officers entered, Mulce took to a clothes closet.

So many shots were exchanged in the closing moments of the engagement that it is impossible to tell whether the fatal wound was self-inflicted or was made by a police bullet. Sergeant Shearer believes the bullet came from his revolver, just before he was shot by the fugitive.

Mulce, believed to have become suddenly demented, slashed his wrists in an attempt at suicide before making his last stand.

Police were summoned to the house last night by another boarder who reported that Mulce had been threatening to shoot some one.

Calls On Friends To Say Good-Bye Then Takes Life

GISSONBURG, OHIO, Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Aaron Meyers, 65, went about town last Friday bidding friends good-bye. To the local undertaker he carried his best clothes and left instructions that he be buried in these garments.

The village marshal investigated Meyers' actions and as the aged man's home found his reading a newspaper and apparently in the best of spirits.

Meyers died today from effects of poison taken some time Saturday night.

Buildings Torn Down By Storm

EVANSVILLE, IND., Feb. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Property damage, which it is estimated will reach several hundred thousand dollars was caused by a tornado, which swept across southern Indiana yesterday, according to reports received here. The tornado, followed by hail and rain, swept a path approximately a mile wide, creating destruction in the outskirts of this city. Fort Branch, seven miles north of here, and at Hauptstadt, 17 miles north.

Four homes, an amusement resort and a school house were leveled on the outskirts of Evansville. At Fort Branch, several homes were destroyed and trees uprooted. Approximately $100,000 worth of property and livestock was destroyed at Hauptstadt.

Many cattle were killed by falling debris and in one instance in Hauptstadt more than two dozen horses were smothered to death when trapped under hay in a barn wrecked by the gale. Electric light wires were torn down, plunging the smaller towns in the vicinity of Evansville into darkness.

To Buy Goods.
A. Belt will leave Thursday for New York, where he will spend a week buying goods for the Portsmouth Dry Goods Company.

LOOK!

Should a Furniture Store
Be in the High Rent
District?

Do You Go To The High Rent District to Buy Lumber?

No, because lumber takes too much space and space is too valuable. Do you go to the high rent district to buy Sand, Gravel or Building Material?

No, because they require too much space and space is valuable.

The High Rent District may be alright for Jewelry Stores, Drug Stores, Shoes Stores, Gents' Furnishings Stores and etc. because they only require small space in which to transact business, but a furniture store like lumber and building material requires lots of space and space in the High Rent District is too valuable and incurs too much overhead expense.

A Furniture Store to be well stocked and to give you a choice selection would require from 10 to 50 times the space that a drug store, a jewelry store, a shoe store or a gents' furnishings store would require, with a correspondingly amount of rent and overhead.

We Have Investigateded

Almost every month we are approached by some one with a proposition for us to change our location for one in the High Rent District. We have investigated the proposition thoroughly and we find that to secure a suitable building with the same amount of floor space, we would increase our overhead expense $24,000.00 to $30,000.00 per year.

In other words every one who has made us a proposition no one has figured the investment in buildings at less than $150,000.00.

Here on Second street, our investment in buildings is less than $10,000.00, our present rent is figured on a $10,000.00 investment, whereas if we moved up town, we would have to increase this just 14 times; or add $140,000.00 to the building investment.

No Rent To Pay

Some merchants will say "Why we own our building and have no rent to pay." Let me tell you right here there is not a merchant in the United States who does not figure on rental on their building investment. If they do not they cease to exist. We own our own property, we pay ourselves a rental on it and so does every other merchant.

Who Pays This Extra Expense?

The people who buy their furniture and home furnishings in the High Rent District, without considering shopping where rents are low.

If a merchant is doing business where his rent is figured at $150.00 per month he can most assuredly sell you cheaper than the one who has to pay from $750 to $1500 per month.

We do not have to cut quality to pay High Rents, nor charge 25 per cent to 40 per cent more for our furniture.

We simply lessen that big item expense and pass the saving on to you.

Prove this to your own satisfaction by visiting this store, where you will find Honesty Courtesy and Integrity mingled with Low Prices.

New Method Sales Plan

Remember any purchase you may make here, you can have the payments spread over a long period of time and receive the regular cash price.

Wilson Did Not Know The Word Compromise; Had Faith In Ideals And He Fought For Them

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1924)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The hour of surrender—a word which in his days of power he never recognized—has come to Woodrow Wilson.

And with it there wells up simultaneously in the hearts of the people everywhere a sadness borne of admiration for the stoicism of a statesman who fought till the last for the ideals in which he believed.

"I would rather fail," he used to say, "in a cause that I know some day will triumph than to win in a cause that I know some day will fail."

It was his philosophy of battle. To posterity he looked always for vindication. He never understood the word "compromise." Even in his breakdown after the famous West-Point trip, when it seemed as if the Versailles covenant of the League of Nations was bent in the Senate, he scorned defeat.

Senator Mitchell, Democrat, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, who was in charge of the fight for the League of Nations treaty, is asking for an engagement.

"I suppose he is coming to talk compromise," commented Mr. Wilson as he granted the engagement, but he listened without surrender. All the world may say Woodrow Wilson should have compromised and that today he would have had America a member of the League with reservations. But to Woodrow Wilson it was an enduring principle. He could not barter what he thought was fundamental to the peace of the world. And he looked over his shoulder, waiting patiently for the turn in the tide, the turn that years of agitation may or may not bring but at the hour of his passing from the stage of life America remains outside the League he worked so ardently to establish.

Pragmatic may be the atmosphere, sorrow felt by his friends and foes alike that he did not retain the physical vigor to continue his fight, praise for his courage—all this may be the comment of the outside world but not a word of pity or pathos did the Wilsonian temperament want. His was the spirit of a crusader. His was the tenacity of a soldier in a hard-fought battle. He never gave an inch. For years he was ready for death. He went forth on his western trip against the advice of his physicians but with a smile of disregard for life itself. He used to say he would gladly give his life for the cause of the League of Nations. The remaining years of his life were meant to him only for the accomplishment of the greatest ideal of all—a world organization for peace.

Thought of the fallen in battle. Scattered by the war, racked in nerves, never forgetting the awfulness of the combat in which he felt always a personal responsibility, he never could out of his mind the thoughts of the hundred thousand American boys who died, as he thought, for an ideal and of the hundreds of thousands who came home wounded and maimed in the service of that ideal.

"To make the world safe for democracy," was Mr. Wilson's war slogan. To his critics it became an empty phrase. But the idea of a war to end war never left Woodrow Wilson. Long after the American people began to turn their minds to domestic concerns and the material side of reconstruction the bloodings of Mr. Wilson over the breakdown of moral force continued. He was arbitrary in his views about a formula for world peace because he was in no mood for detail or distrust of other peoples' governments. All had worked together in the common partnership of war. All had put their armies and navies under one command and had given of their blood and money and resources without stint for an ideal. The decision of 1917 meant to Woodrow Wilson a readiness on the part of America to assume obligations in the affairs of the world and to fulfill them. The recession from their viewpoint he could never understand. In his last speech to the American over the radio on Armistice day, November 11, 1918, Mr. Wilson, bitter in his denunciation of that policy, he called it "cowardly" and ignoble. And his words were repeated by many. To the sick man in seclusion in the National Capital it was but the last feeble attempt to bestir the people to a realization of the change that had come over them since they pledged themselves in 1917, so willingly to cooperation with the rest of the world without reservation.

Did Not Want to Enter War
Seven years ago to a day almost—Saturday, February 3, 1917—came the fatal turn in the career of Woodrow Wilson. It was on that day that the United States severed diplomatic relations with Germany and ordered Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, to go home. War followed two months later—a war that entered Wilson's life for a long time prior to 1917 that American participation would sooner or later become imperative. He hoped against hope for an allied victory without the aid of the United States. As he steered the ship of state in what he believed was a prayer that the allies would end the war triumphantly and enable the United States to play the role of peacemaker and healer of the wounds of war. But when war came he threw himself into the fray with an abandon that wiped the mistaken phrase "too proud to fight" out of the vocabulary of his critics, for once and all, the selective service act—compulsory military service—something which under the dread name of "conscription" had shaken the other democracies of the world to their foundations with a suddenness that made everybody gasp. But it enabled America to put two million into Europe and turn the tide of battle toward the ultimate victory.

It was Woodrow Wilson who from the first fought for unity of command on land and sea and the brushing aside of technical sovereignty in the interest of self preservation of the allied peoples. His influence in the scales made Foch the Generalissimo and enabled the fleets of the allies to be combined for effective operations under the British flag command. The hectic days of the war with their worries and burdens that his friends thought would break him down were weathered triumphantly but he set sail for the peace conference with a heart saddened by the loss of both houses of Congress after his ill-fated appeal of 1919 for a Democratic congress. He had been thinking of the partisan attack behind his back in the war

Party Will Not Forget
And even on top of that Woodrow Wilson hoped for vindication in 1924. He watched the maneuvers of the candidates, Name but James M. Cox has been mentioning the League of Nations but the removal of Woodrow Wilson from the political stage will not mean that his party will forget. William Mc-Adoo, son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson, has publicly declared for the League of Nations with suitable reservations and proper safeguards on American sovereignty and independence. Mr. McAdoo may or may not be heir to the Wilson strength in the United States but he has already indicated his willingness to take up the battle for the League.

Woodrow Wilson never sanctioned his son-in-law's presidential ambitions. He never committed himself so far as any knows to any man for 1924 but he had been looking hopefully to the Democratic National convention in June to adopt a platform which would keep alive the Wilsonian view of foreign policy.

Only a few weeks ago the members of the Democratic National committee passed in silent procession before the ex-President at his home. His haggard face, his feeble body loosely draped in an arm chair, his smile of recognition, his old friends—made a picture of never-to-be-forgotten tragedy. But his farewell counsel to his party—he had never surrendered.

Sought Support of People
The events that followed convinced Mr. Wilson that the Republicans would make a partisan question of the League of Nations and the peace treaty and he was left so confident of the opinion of the American people that he waited a referendum in the election of 1920 to decide the issue. But Mr. Wilson's precepts of government, his theories of parliamentary government, and the practical side of American politics especially in presidential year were at variance. Thirty-one prominent Republicans including Elihu Root, Charles Evans Hughes and Robert Hoover, interpreted the Republican national platform of 1920 and the views of Warren Harding, the Republican presidential candidate, as meaning that "to vote Harding" was a "vote for the league with reservations." When the victory of the Republicans was won, they promptly repudiated that position and declared the "league is dead" and in the first inaugural address, the Republican President announced his intention of keeping America outside the League of Nations either with or without reservations.

Attend Meet
In Sciotoville
Only a short routine session was held by Magnolia Lodge K. of P. last night, a delegation of about 25 going from Magnolia lodge to Sciotoville to attend a big meeting of the Knights there. Magnolia Lodge will celebrate the diamond jubilee of Pythianism on Monday night, February 18. Plans for a program befitting the occasion are in the hands of a committee.

OPERATED UPON
George Nans, of Nauvoo, underwent a successful operation for appendicitis in Hempstead Hospital Tuesday.

U. B. Church News
Splendid congregations attended all services Tuesday. More than eight were in attendance at Christian Endeavor Sunday evening, at six o'clock and at the Evangelistic service at seven the large auditorium was crowded with interested people.

After two rest nights the revival services will be resumed in the auditorium on Wednesday evening at seven fifteen. With this public service and through various other ways the revival is expected to be continued until Easter time. The pastor's subject Wednesday night will be "Why Are You Not a Christian?" and those who read this announcement are urged to invite non-Christian friends to attend. The choir will be present and we expect to have a great service.

On Thursday afternoon the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid Society will be held at the parsonage, 1631 Officere street.

Lot Transferred To Hurth Hotel Company
Title to the real estate at Third and Chillicothe streets which will be the site of the new Hurth Hotel, the preliminary work on which has started, was transferred to the Hurth Hotel company today by Adolph J. Hurth, chief promoter of the new enterprise and who will be the manager of the new hostelry.

To Name Delegates
A meeting of the executive committee of the Local Council, Boy Scouts of America will be held at the scout headquarters tonight at 7:30. This is the first meeting of the body since the election of a new committee at the annual meeting of the council. Two new members were elected. They are Rev. H. E. Bright and Henry Bertram. The old members re-elected are N. B. Griffin, president, Fred Fride, treasurer, P. E. Selby, Adolphus, J. W. Bannan, Jr., Ross Donahoe, Albert Tibb, treasurer, and Harry Wagner, chairman of Court of Honor. At this meeting delegates are to be elected to attend the Regional conference which is to be held at the Gibson Hotel, Cincinnati, on February 15th.

Jude To Play
Captain "Jude" Baesman of the Portsmouth Selects will play Wednesday night in front of the St. Joseph Selects against the St. Edward College Selects of Huntingten.

Davy's Orchestra and Entertainers Score
At The Columbia: Will Be There All Week
The Columbia theatre was packed at both performances last night. There was a reason.

Walter Davidson's crack orchestra opened a week's engagement there and Manager Fred N. Tynes offered a splendid pictorial feature. Davy and his gang offered real entertainment and received many encores. There are clever musical stunts in addition to the orchestra numbers and it looks like a big week at the Columbia. Davy and his musicians are very popular in this town and rightfully so, as their orchestra is recognized as one of the best in the country and Davy is a real leader as well as being a clever musician and composer. The orchestra offers an evening of real entertainment in itself and Columbia patrons are in for a rollicking week.

This well balanced musical organization begins to jazz the latest foot jukking numbers when other orchestras are through.

Here Are Judges
The judges at last night's boxing show were Edward "Boss" Tager and Ralph Delamater. Tager was the third man in the ring and he decides the decision when the judges tie.

Meet Tonight
In New Hall
Members of the Local Order of Moose will hold their first meeting in the Haru Gari hall, Gallia and Gay streets tonight. A big city turnout of members is looked for. The lodge disposed of its paraphernalia in its former quarters at Third and Washington streets.

ENGINEER HOLMES IS IN THE CITY
Former City Engineer E. J. Holmes, who has now opened an office in Cincinnati, is here on business and to greet old friends. He will do a general surveying business in the Queen City.

Jenkins Sent To Pen
was recovered here, was found guilty and was sentenced to three years in the Frankfort penitentiary. Sentence was passed by Judge W. C. Halbert.

Mattress Call Is Answered
Two little tots and their father and mother will sleep on comfortable beds tonight because Portsmouth hotels are generous. Last night the Bureau of Community Service printed an appeal for a mattress for a family that had been driven from home by fire. At noon today six mattresses, five of them for full size beds the other for a baby bed had been received at the bureau.

Scouts Open Anniversary Week Friday
All Scouts are awaiting with great expectation Friday night of the week at which time will be held the grand pep rally and opening of anniversary week. All troops will gather at the scout headquarters at 7:30 and will enjoy a get together meeting. This gathering marks the first of a series of activities which the scouts will conduct during the week following. Letters have been sent out to all scoutmasters urging them to have their troops turn out in full for this occasion as it will no doubt be one long to be remembered. At 8:15 all scouts will march in a body to the corner of Gallia and Chillicothe streets and there repeat in public the Scout Oath. The local Scouts will be taking part in a program which will be participated in at the same time by 600,000 boys all over the United States. The other two important events of the week will be a large campfire and water volleyball in York Park on Saturday night and on the following Thursday night the entertainment of the local Scouts by the Rotary Club at the Elks parlors. These three gatherings promise to be the source of the greatest enjoyment the local Scouts have had for many months.

TO ENJOIN EXTRACTION OF OIL FROM LEASED GOVERNMENT RESERVE

WASHINGTON, February 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Injunction proceedings to prevent further extraction of oil from the Teapot Dome and Elk Hill reserves will be instituted by the government's special counsel in the oil land cases as soon as President Coolidge signs the Walsh resolution recently adopted by congress.

Community Chest Bulletin

Realizing that the world is held together by the great mass of folk who carry out a daily task and who attend to their own particular subdivision making up the world as a whole, and which have faith that in the final day, honor will come in full measure, is our vision, which prompts us in our community work.

The great mass of citizenship is the salt of the earth, they constitute the bulk of the people who progress through the mill of the week and slowly. So we band ourselves into these world conditions that human strength in mind and body may be conserved through better living conditions, belonging with this higher Christ-like ideal, which works for good, peace and character.

We believe that a practice of right motives will make for right conditions, that if the feet of those that have been veered slightly from the right course will again be straightened, their faces will be turned toward the light, they will not again miss the road, and all right minded people desire to see this state of condition prevail.

When this situation predominates, our trust basis of prosperity will have been established and the arguments of those of this day fully explained. This is the essence of our security, and the promise of all our progress.

If this faith which inspires sympathy should be lost by any considerable number of our people, or

Court House

Charges Neglect and Cruelty

Rhodes Rhoden charges neglect and cruelty in her suit for a divorce and alimony, with custody of their minor child, instituted in Common Pleas court Tuesday against Raymond Rhoden, now an inmate of the Soldiers' Home, Dayton, whom she married in February 1920.

Plaintiff in her petition filed through Attorney B. F. Kimble, says that Rhoden squanders his money for liquor and has failed and refused to support her and child, besides, she complains that during the time she lived with the defendant he frequently assaulted and abused her. She further declares that Rhoden told friends he wished to be rid of her.

Accused of Destroying Property

Oscar Fuhr, Donald Purlee and Howard Hance, three of a number of youths, ranging in age from 14 to 16 years, who appeared in juvenile court Tuesday to answer complaints filed by railroad detectives accusing them of destroying railroad property, were adjudged delinquents when they admitted guilt and Judge Gilliland fined them $1 and costs each. The trio admitted that when playing Sunday they rammed out to Vera and knocked several water barrels from the N. & W. bridge, placed there for fire protection, just for fun.

The other lads implicated in the depredation, including Harold Bauer, Lionel Bauer, Bernard Weghorst, John Price, Edward DeLoelle and Frank Duckett, who are admitting being present, denied having any hand in the barrel pushing incident, and they will be required to return Friday morning for trial.

Alleges Neglect and Cruelty

Alleging neglect and cruelty and declaring that two years following their marriage in 1903, she began a system of abuse which she continued until he was forced to leave her, in August, 1920, Carl B. Johnston, 4322 Rhodes avenue, New Boston, is seeking to be divorced from Henrietta Johnston, now living at 1614 South Fourth street, Tronton, in an action instituted Tuesday in Common Pleas court.

Plaintiff in his petition filed through Attorney George W. Shepard says that when he left the defendant she was in possession of real estate which she afterwards sold for $8150 in addition to money from the sale of household goods and other personal property, no part of which he claims he received.

NEW YORK, N. Y., February 5.—Trading extended over a broad list in today's stock market despite a slight dip in the oil market. The oil market, however, was the feature, with group movements against the feature. Strength in the oil market was counteracted by weakness in the sugar market, some of the dividend paying rails and high priced industrial specialties. The close was irregular. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Stock Prices resumed their upward movement at the opening of today's market with the oil market assuming the leadership. Cotton moved up a point and a dozen other issues opened fractionally higher. The oil market, however, was the feature, with group movements against the feature. Strength in the oil market was counteracted by weakness in the sugar market, some of the dividend paying rails and high priced industrial specialties. The close was irregular. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

Thousands of victims of dust-filled air develop the same trouble that Mr. Egan had. Mike Emulsion costs nothing to try, so why not try it?

Mike Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action; it is a truly corrective medicine, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, and thus build flesh and strength. Mike Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose sickness is weakened; it is a powerful aid in resisting and relieving the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Mike Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with results, your money will be promptly refunded. Everybody's Talking

About the BIG REAL ESTATE WEEK soon to be held in this city. Everybody's anxiously waiting for the BIG WEEK to come.

Never In the History of Portsmouth

Has there ever been such a selling campaign planned. We have now locked in the big fire proof vault some of the finest listings ever offered for sale in this city. Not a single piece of this property will be sold until Record Week, then all will have a fair and equal chance.

REMEMBER:

That in order to get your property listed for this 'Special Week', we must have it at once. We may be too busy to get to you later on. If you have property to sell, you can't afford to miss this great opportunity.

Call us now — and we'll be right on the job.

COAL DUST LODGED IN MINER'S LUNGS
Tells how his cough was conquered and health restored.

"In November, 1918, I was working in a coal mine and the doctors said the coal dust had settled in my lungs. I couldn't lie down on my right side, coughed so I couldn't sleep and in a few weeks my lungs were free. I could sleep like a baby, had an excellent appetite and my cough left me entirely. I gained back 80 pounds in weight and went back to work in the mines completely restored to health."—G. H. Bunn, 6th Ave., and No. 13th St., Terre Haute, Ind.

"Then I came home and started on Mike Emulsion. Thank God I did, as it did me a lot of good right from the start, loosening up the coal dust in my right lung. In a few weeks my lungs were free. I could sleep like a baby, had an excellent appetite and my cough left me entirely. I gained back 80 pounds in weight and went back to work in the mines completely restored to health."—G. H. Bunn, 6th Ave., and No. 13th St., Terre Haute, Ind.

Thousands of victims of dust-filled air develop the same trouble that Mr. Egan had. Mike Emulsion costs nothing to try, so why not try it?

Mike Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action; it is a truly corrective medicine, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, and thus build flesh and strength. Mike Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose sickness is weakened; it is a powerful aid in resisting and relieving the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Mike Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Mike Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.

IN THE ROGUES' GALLERY

THE American people have pretty well made up their minds about Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior under whose administration the naval oil reserves were disposed of to private interests. Already he has been classified as a fitting candidate for the national rogues' gallery, and whether or not he is ever brought to criminal responsibility, his name will be covered with ignominy on the pages of history.

Just what sort of a man Fall is otherwise was shown, startlingly the other day in senate debate by Senator Ashurst, of Arizona. Fall has been trying to hide behind a sick bed plea and had been defended by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire. According to the Congressional Record, of Friday, February first, Senator Ashurst said:

"Mr. Ashurst: 'Mr. President, as I am compelled to leave the Chamber in a few moments I wish to address the Senate briefly at this time.

"I discovered this morning in the Record, on page 1768, a very remarkable speech delivered by the able Senator from New Hampshire (Mr. Moses). In conclusion he said:

"Here we shall continue to find the partisan pack in full bay—Blanche, Tray, and Sweetheart all hot upon the scent. Here I suppose we shall continue to see and the country will not fail to take notice of a proceeding in which we find sick chambers invaded by a jazz band, a ghoulish dance performed in a cemetery, and partisan snipers making a rifle pit of the grave of Warren Harding."

"I wish to make some reply to the observations of the Senator from New Hampshire. They are without foundation, and whoever informed the Senator that such proceedings were going on here or elsewhere is very much mistaken.

"On the contrary, on December 6, 1919, a man lay sick at the White House. He was a casualty of the war as truly as any soldier was. He is a man whose soul may soon become a part of eternity itself. He is a man who never used the precious gift of God called life for other purpose than to advance the ideals he believed to be right for peace, justice, and truth.

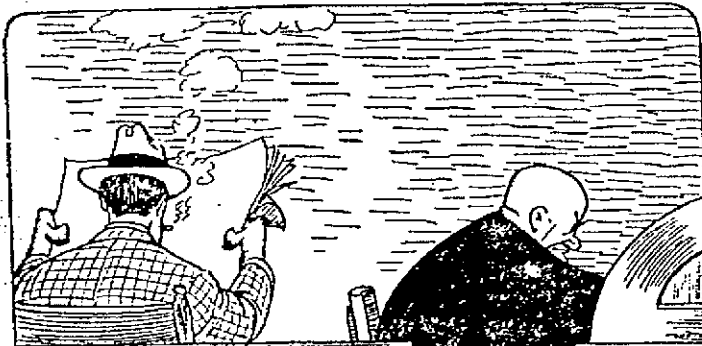

"On the 6th of December, 1919, a procedure took place, emanating from a committee of this body, the like of which was never before known in the American government. The precincts of the sick room were disturbed. The door was rapped upon. A bitter partisan in the person of the Senator from New Mexico, Mr. Fall, rapped upon the door, causing the sick man to lay aside the covers that he might see the condition of this man who was so seriously ill.

"Now, what is the situation? A great misfortune has come into the life of ex-Secretary Fall, but the Committee on Public Lands and Surveys refuses and disdains to rap upon his door to ascertain his condition. No member of the Committee on Public Lands and Surveys went to the sick chamber of that unfortunate man to ascertain his condition. They have too much respect for the proprieties of the occasion. They have too much respect for a sick man and too much sympathy for human suffering to do such a thing."

Well, we have had a month of the new administration that came in with such a beating of tom-toms and we find life moving along in about the same old way. The only thing new, so far as we can see, is that the Mayor has taken the prohibition squad to bed with him and between naps, has contrived to get a few of his henchmen onto the city pay roll. Same old dirt litters the city streets, same old garbage smells to heaven in the alleys, none of those high-sounding projects outlined in that ringing message have so much as been heard from since. Really, the only thing we have noticed particularly different from last year is that somebody has evidently told City Auditor J. Earl Chandler to shut up and be quiet or he would get smacked on the kisser. And that is some achievement, we'll admit.

And now we are reluctantly forced to confess that we have extended our hopes about that new depot the Norfolk & Western is going to build us and to expect it to be occupied the year after next year.

The selection of former Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, as one of the attorneys to probe the oil lease scandal, is fine recognition of a splendid, high-minded man, a man who in his public service was scrupulously honest and ever held to high conception of the dignity of his office and his duty to the people of the country. If there be guilt, Senator Pomerene can be depended upon to see that the guilty are punished, regardless of who they may be, of what their position in political or private life may be.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, February 5.—Greenwich Village is easing up in its nocturnal deviltry. Recent police activity closed up two of the most notorious places where men painted their lips. Sightseers who journey there from uptown in charabancs find nothing to shock them.

In the Pink Pups and Purple Cows one finds patrons sipping mineral water and chewing sugar cane. Pianos are stilled at midnight. "The Village" had come to connote Bohemia. The old aristocratic flavor of the earlier days south of Washington Square is returning.

It has been a blow to the cellars full of wild eating places, but for the Bath shops, radical bookstores, the hammered brass stores and the like, it proved a boon. Trade has improved. There has been a steady desertion of the village by many of the "property" characters.

Their livelihood depended largely on crowds on the loose. In this mood they were able to apply their gentle gypsy—selling "soul candy," Russian cigarettes and the like, at ridiculous prices. A number of the cafes are still dispensing "red ink," but the number is dwindling.

In the early Dutch days The Village was the seat of culture. It had a distinctive charm. Washington Irving was the center of a group of brilliant writers. Yanderya and Morse were maintaining masterpieces of byre-back chairs and director's sofas.

An address in Greenwich Village ten years ago gave a social distinction that Park and Madison Avenues give today. Then came the jolly high handed rovers from uptown. They decided to exploit the Village. Bunk supplanted class.

Fine old homes became brothels. Attics were filled with artists who never held a brush in their hands. Men who collected advertisements for theatre programs posed as great writers. Free love and free verse were idealized. The oldest settler, a man of the white man on Manhattan became a red light zone.

Near Times Square a cellar cafe has opened up and the owner calls it "The Black Hole of Calcutta." The lights are very low and the walls are decorated with fantasies that picture the brooding tragedy of de-

Love Defended
Love, the noblest of things made,
Let all stars attend you;
Love, so trumped and betrayed,
Let my song defend you!

Love that makes the dust aspire,
All the gods acclaim you;
Yet men foul your feet with mire
And their lips defame you.

In my hand a sword of song,
Quivers to avenge you wrong
When your face is whitening.

You were made for starry air,
Dauntless songs and sorceries—
Made for rapture and despair,
Made for man's adornings.

One on Hall Calne
At a dinner given years ago in honor of Hall Calne, the late Thomas Nelson Page was invited to introduce the English novelist.

One of the guests next to Mr. Page, just before the toast began, passed his menu card around the table with the request that Mr. Calne put his signature on it.

"That's a good idea," said Page. "I must do that, too. I've got to introduce Calne in a few minutes and I want to be able to say that I have read something he has written."

Time Will Tell
Sis—Brother, will you get my watch, it's upstairs?
Bro—Aw, wait a while and it will run down.

Sis—Oh, no; 't won't, my dear, ours is a winding staircase.—Punch Bowl.

THE CAVE MAN, SO WE LEARN FROM science, Were not a race of splendid giants, But rather small and weak.

And from a study of each fossil We gather they were shy and docile, With natures mild and meek.

IT WAS, we learn, the cave man's habit To run away from any rabbit That showed a sign of fight. He lived on snails and little fishes, And various vegetarian dishes Sufficed his appetite.

SO any modern tea-room lizard, With varnished hair discreetly scissored, Could make him run away. And ladies who adore a brave man: Would snuff it if they should meet a He'd get the gate today.

YET, though the scientists discover The cave man was a timid lover, The women still agree On longing for a bold pursuer. The kind of chap the cave man wooed: Just as one supposes to be!
